

The Perfect Collaboration

The company's name Synergi encapsulates our business philosophy: to synchronise the efforts of our clients and candidates through us, so that all groups become a powerful whole rather than less productive independent units. We passionately believe that when great people come together success follows. Hence, our underlying objective is to forge long-term working relationships that are not only enjoyable but also prosperous.

As a company we have grown rapidly and developed a recruiting reputation second-to-none throughout the UK. We take special pride in finding unique and talented people to fit your recruitment needs whatever they may be. No job is too little or too big for us. We personally guarantee all of our clients that we have the skills to search, select, and develop the best recruits. The calibre of our existing clientele is a testament to the quality of our service excellence.

Working Practice

At Synergi our highly skilled staff members have the knowledge and experience to advise and assist you in every aspect of the recruitment process. At the centre of our practice is a thorough and reliable recruitment procedure. That is, we use a step-by-step talent identification system to pick the strongest candidates. Our team initially endeavours to comprehensively learn about your company culture, needs, and requirements. Simultaneously we take the time to build up a comprehensive understanding of the individual candidate's wishes and aspirations. Following on, we seek to meet all candidates face-to-face or by telephone before we consider them for positions. We then venture to match people with the right mix of personality, attitude, skills, and experience to your specific company requirements. It is precisely this painstaking attention to detail that makes us one of the number one names in the field of recruitment.

Market Sectors

Whatever sector you are in we have a reputation of prolifically placing talented candidates in both temporary positions and for permanent employment contracts. At a time when the market is in constant flux and skills are in great demand we can find people with the knowledge, experience, and expertise to offer you the optimum level of quality. We can also recruit specialist professionals for industries like pharmaceutical manufacturers, blue chip companies, food and beverage providers, and to those working in the hospitality industry.

Synergi staff members take the same care and commitment in selecting people suitable for shop floor positions to senior executive roles. We have the capacity and knowledge to work for local small businesses, regional firms, and national companies. Therefore, whether you are looking for a single person or a whole team, our tried and tested system ensures that we can find the best recruits for your company. If you are looking to fulfil a new vacancy or you have a resource problem, please contact our enthusiastic team at recruitment@synergi.uk.com

Striving for Success

At Synergi we continually aim to improve our services to meet the changing demands of the recruitment industry. The organic growth of our company in unison with innovative development strategies has helped us stay at the top of our game. Indeed, our monitoring mechanisms allow us to periodically strengthen our search and select procedures. This is mainly based on traditional methods of searching and advertising to web-based solutions. The unprecedented growth of our nationwide database of clients and candidates demonstrates our eminent reputation within this competitive area of business. To us, recruitment is about more than just finding anyone to fill a vacant position. It is about pairing the perfect candidates with clients. We are especially proud of being able to develop recruits with the right skills into confident and successful individuals.
